Today, I spoke with a group of homeschool students from across the state. We discussed various aspects of leadership and how we can all posititively impact our surrounding communities.

Below are a few photos from today. To view more photos, click here .