This morning, I had the privilege of speaking at the grand opening of Progress Rail in Muncie. Currently, 168 people are employed at this locomotive plant, and the company is looking to hire more people in the future. I want to pay tribute to the great people of Muncie and I want to commend Governor Mitch Daniels, Lieutenant Governor Becky Skillman and Mayor Sharon McShurley for their efforts to bring Progress Rail to Muncie. Indiana has a long and proud history in manufacturing and it's exciting that this next chapter is being written in Muncie.
