Today, I had the opportunity to attend the 93rd Annual Indiana Farm Bureau Convention. It was great to speak with fellow Hoosiers about the issues affecting today's farmers. Family farmers are greatly impacted by legislation made in Congress, and I firmly believe that family farmers must be protected from burdensome, costly federal red tape. Yesterday, I voted in support of a Farm Dust Regulation Prevention Act.
Here is an article from the Fort Wayne Journal Gazette on the bill:
Bills Tells EPA to Keep Hands Off Farm Dust
