PENCE TO PARTICIPATE IN NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER

Washington, May 5, 2004 - Washington, D.C.- U.S. Congressman Mike Pence will participate in events at the U.S. Capitol tomorrow, including a public Bible reading, to commemorate the 53rd anniversary of the National Day of Prayer.

“Politics will take a backseat to prayer on Capitol Hill tomorrow,” said Pence. “I look forward to joining the chorus of voices across America as we come before Almighty God and seek strength, wisdom and guidance during this trying time in our nation’s history. I also encourage everyone to keep our young men and women in uniform and their families in prayer as they fight to protect our country.”
