Washington, DC-U.S. Congressman Mike Pence issued the following statement today after the House passed $100 billion in spending cuts in H.R. 1, the Continuing Appropriations Act of 2011:

"By passing this Continuing Resolution, Congress funded the government, kept faith with the American people, and took an important first step toward restoring fiscal discipline in Washington D.C. By including more than $100 billion in budget cuts, the new majority in Congress kept our word to the American people and began the work necessary to put our fiscal house in order. I urge our colleagues in the Senate to accept this important legislation."
