Congressman Pence hosted a special order hour last night, which takes place after all official business has been wrapped up, when Members are able to come to the floor to discuss whatever topic they like.

Congressman Pence, as the Chair of the House GOP American Energy Solutions Working Group, led the time in talking about energy legislation, most notably the so-called "cap and trade" legislation: