

Today I had the unique opportunity to join students from the Hoosier Academies Virtual School in a virtual classroom visit. The students learned what it was like to serve as Congressman for the 6th District of our great state. I was able to answer questions, show the students a picture of my family and even show them my red phone - to which my wife is the only one who has the number!

Below are a couple of photos from this neat experience:

The students watched my video, "A Day in the Life of a Congressman" before I answered questions.

I was able to answer questions via webcam as students watched over the internet.
